- A HIGH risk, as he is likely to pose a threat to the US, its interests, and allies
- A LOW threat from a detention perspective
- Of HIGH intelligence value

c. (S//NF) Summary of Changes: The following outlines changes to detainee's assessment since the last JTF-GTMO recommendation. (Changes in this assessment will be annotated by ➤ next to the footnote.)

- Revised detainee's account of events

4. (U) Detainee's Account of Events:

The following section is based, unless otherwise indicated, on detainee's own account. These statements are included without consideration of veracity, accuracy, or reliability.

a. (S//NF) Prior History: Detainee completed six years of education in English from middle school to high school. Detainee completed high school, graduating with a diploma in basic science. During 1990 and 1991, detainee completed basic training and one year of voluntary military service for the Yemeni National Guard. Detainee received training on the AK-47 assault rifle, PK machine gun, rocket propelled grenades (RPG), and a .50 caliber equivalent. Detainee then worked in Sanaa, YM as an electrician's assistant from 1991 to 2000, and also worked as a bus driver during this period from 1994 to 1995.³

b. (S//NF) Recruitment and Travel: Approximately in July 2000, detainee attended a speech and learned about jihad at the al-Hasaba Mosque. After the speech and for the next two of months, Abu Salih, who detainee met at the mosque, talked with detainee about the jihad against the Russians in Afghanistan⁴. After convincing detainee to join the jihad, Abu Salih assisted detainee's travel to Afghanistan by providing him with an airline ticket and approximately $500 US for expenses. Detainee planned to stay in Afghanistan for six months. Detainee began his travel to Afghanistan in September 2000 from Sanaa, traveling to Damascus, Syria (SY). Detainee stayed in a hotel in Damascus for ten days. Detainee then traveled to Tayyebat, Iran (IR) via Tehran and Mashhad, IR. At the Iran-Afghanistan border, the border guards asked detainee if he was Arab, to which detainee replied he was. The border guards told detainee to spend the night at their guesthouse, in which detainee would be taken to Kandahar, AF the following morning.⁵

c. (S//NF) Training and Activities: While in Kandahar, detainee stayed at the Hajji Habash Guesthouse for two to three weeks with 50 to 60 people. The person in charge of the guesthouse, Zubayr al-Haili, told detainee to go to the al-Faruq Training Camp for training.⁶ At al-Faruq, detainee received additional training on the AK-47 and RPGs under the instruction of Abu Muhammad.⁷ Detainee left al-Faruq, resided in a Kabul guesthouse operated by Shaab for one day, and then continued to the Said Center located near the front lines. Abd al-Salam al-Hadrami commanded the Said Center. Detainee went to a house near the Said Center and received another month of training. After training, detainee returned to the Said Center. After two days at the Said Center waiting for Abd al-Salam, detainee returned to the Kabul guesthouse where he remained for two weeks. Detainee then returned to the Said Center. Detainee waited another week at the Said Center for Abd al-Salam to return to get him. Abd al-Salam returned and took detainee to a location between the Said Center and the front lines. Abd al-Salam told detainee to familiarize himself with the area. Detainee reported Abu Hafis visited this region while detainee was there. Four days after detainee's arrival, detainee injured his knee, and went to a clinic in Kabul where he remained for five weeks recuperating.⁸ Detainee traveled to the frontlines to observe the situation. Detainee learned UBL, Abu Hafis, and Abu Thur were in the region where detainee was Detainee's passport has an exit stamp from Sanaa for 17-SEP-2000; however entry stamps into Syria and Iran are unclear.

The Hajji Habash Guesthouse served as an administrative in-processing facility for trainees en route the al-Faruq Training Camp. The trainees surrendered their passports and valuables to the guesthouse administrator for safe keeping. The Guesthouse also served as a waypoint for extremists traveling to and from Pakistan, or between east and west Afghanistan. It was located across the street from the Islamic Institute operated by UBL's religious advisor Mahfouz Ould al-Walid, aka (Abu Hafis al-Mauritani). injured. Detainee heard UBL gave a speech about the rewards of jihad. Detainee returned to Shaab's guesthouse in Kabul, residing there for one week. Detainee eventually returned to Kandahar, staying at a mosque near the Hajji Habash Guesthouse for a month. During that time, detainee met with Zubayr about obtaining a visa and a return plane ticket to Yemen. Detainee returned to Kabul, hoping to obtain a visa through the Iranian Embassy. Finding that to be too difficult, detainee remained in Kabul for six months while waiting for assistance to leave Afghanistan. Detainee sold honey to support himself. Detainee then traveled to Karachi, Pakistan (PK) where he stayed in a house for one month with approximately 15 other men.⁹

5. (U) Capture Information:

a. (S//NF) On 7 February 2002, Pakistani Inter-Services Intelligence Directorate (ISID) officials raided YM-1457's safe house in Karachi. The ISID captured detainee, YM-1457 and 14 other individuals. Detainee was turned over to US forces on 27 February 2002.¹⁰

b. (S) Property Held: None

c. (S) Transferred to JTF-GTMO: 3 May 2002

d. (S//NF) Reasons for Transfer to JTF-GTMO: To provide information on the following:

- Al-Faruq Training Camp
- Al-Qaida safe houses in Kabul, Kandahar, and Karachi
- Individuals who facilitated detainee's travel and stay in Afghanistan and Pakistan

6. (S//NF) Evaluation of Detainee's Account: Detainee is predominately uncooperative and untruthful during debriefings. Detainee has provided information in the past only to recant it later. Despite his denials, other detainees report detainee received advanced training and served as an explosives trainer. Detainee initially stated he was only at the al-Faruq Training Camp for one day but later admitted this was not true and that he completed the training.¹¹ Detainee's account of selling honey in Kabul for the next six months to the fighters on the front lines is a probable attempt to distance himself from any actual participation in hostilities.¹²

○ (S//NF) Al-Qaida explosives expert Tariq Mahmud Ahmad al-Sawah, ISN US9EG-000535DP (EG-535) stated he and detainee attended the same 30-day basic explosives course at al-Faruq which began two months “before the war with the US.”²⁰ EG-535 stated Abd al-Rahman ran this course. Detainee and EG-535 then attended a 30-day explosives course at Tarnak Farm in July 2001.²¹

○ (S//NF) EG-535 identified detainee as an explosives trainer and his assistant at Tarnak Farm until September 2001. EG-535 stated detainee knew everything he did about explosives, and readily taught the explosives course when EG-535 was away from the camp.²²

▪ (C//REL USA, GCTF) EG-535 reported detainee received exclusive instruction on chemical explosives. During the search of the safe house, two Pakistan International Airlines (PIA) aircraft passenger floatation devices were found in a backpack. An itemizer test was conducted on these items, which indicated a positive response for the presence of pentaerythritol tetra nitrate (PETN). PETN is one of the most powerful explosives and is often used as the main charge in blasting caps and detonating cords.³⁶

c. (S//NF) Detainee's Conduct: Detainee is assessed as a LOW threat from a detention perspective. His overall behavior has been compliant and rarely hostile to the guard force and staff. Detainee currently has 42 Reports of Disciplinary Infraction listed in DIMS with the most recent occurring on 22 April 2008, when he was found in possession of two sheets of paper with ISN numbers scratched out. He has 9 Reports of Disciplinary Infraction for assault with the most recent occurring on 14 July 2004, when detainee spat at the interpreter. Other incidents for which he has been disciplined include inciting and participating in mass disturbances, failure to follow guard instructions and camp rules, unauthorized communications, damage to government property, assaults, and possession of food and non-weapon type contraband. On 18 March 2007, detainee was found in possession of two long pieces of toilet paper twisted together to make two sets of rope. In 2007, he had a total of 5 Reports of Disciplinary Infraction and one so far in 2008.

8. (U) Detainee Intelligence Value Assessment:

b. (S//NF) Placement and Access: Detainee received training at the al-Qaida operated al-Faruq Training Camp and explosives training at the Tarnak Farm Training Camp. Detainee then served as an explosives trainer. Detainee stayed at al-Qaida associated guesthouses in Karachi and Kandahar. Detainee spent time on the front lines at the Said Center under Abd al-Salaam al-Hadrami. He was eventually caught in Karachi with others waiting for al-Qaida members YM-1457 and KU-10024 to obtain the necessary paperwork for him to escape back to Yemen.

c. (S//NF) Intelligence Assessment: Detainee can probably provide information on recruitment and facilitation in Yemen. Detainee can also probably discuss personnel, curriculum, and logistics of the al-Qaida training camps at al-Faruq and Tarnak Farm. Detainee can probably provide information on command and control on the front lines, as well as ingress/egress routes and guesthouses, including the Dhahak and Hajji Habash Guesthouses in Kandahar, and YM-1457's safe house in Karachi.
